

Istituto Superiore di Sanità

IT'S SO EASY

A CRAFTSMAN WORK NOW DISAPPEARED. FROM A GLASS BLOWER OF THE ISTITUTO SUPERIORE DI SANITÀ

Interview with Gianni Radiciotti

Conducted by Paola De Castro and Sara Modigliani
at the Publishing Unit - ISS
on July 2006

Shooting by Walter Tranquilli, editing by Mirko Di Benedetto

© ISS - Settore Attività Editoriali - 2008

N.1

It's so easy

A craftsman work now disappeared. From a glass blower of the Istituto Superiore di Sanità

A spontaneous story told by a former-employee of the Istituto Superiore di Sanità who recalls memories of a past still alive in him and unknown to most. Gianni Radiciotti worked at the Institute as a glass blower since 1946. He recalls with clarity and passion his work in close contact with "those who were important people" expressing respect and admiration for Ernst Boris Chain, Nobel prize in 1945, for Domenico Marotta, Director of the ISS during the years 1935-1961, for Giulio Cesare Trabacchi, Director of the Laboratory of Physics, for many others "who are worthy", researchers, friends and colleagues.

This movie was presented for the first time at the first conference "Storie e memorie dell'Istituto Superiore di Sanità" ("Histories and Memories of the Istituto Superiore di Sanità"), February 4, 2008.

Duration 12 minutes.